

A hard-hitting political campaign is in prospect for 1950, according to spring trends in Michigan.

Governor G. Mennen Williams caused no raising of eyebrows among Republican legislators when he accused them in a speech before the Michigan CIO Council of being controlled by "big business."

The heir to the Mennen soap millions declared that "special interests have been served and the people's interest neglected" by Republican domination at Lansing. The "do-nothing" record of the legislature, he said, included inaction on a fair employment law, failure to remedy "outrageously unfair" disqualifications in unemployment compensation law, hostility to public housing needs and woeing of private utilities by granting them higher rates.

It has been the consistent contention of the Democratic governor that $112 more millions in government spending should be raised solely by a tax on business profits.

Williams has persisted in the specialist's belief that corporations should be made to dole out post-war profits for public benefits. In fact, corporations would readily absorb the cost, he added. The cost would not be transferred to the consumer in the form of higher prices. It would be added expense of doing business in Michigan.

This "no consumer tax" plank in the Williams platform was unveiled one year ago. Republican legislators were not impressed. The reply was "socialism" for personal political propaganda.

And so when the governor called a special session of the legislature in 1950, recommending $112 more millions to be spent by governments, the stage was obviously set for a ready-made campaign issue. The Republicans would be counted on to oppose a business profits tax. They did just that.

Williams neatly created a situation whereby the G. O. P. could be attacked for "reactionary" negligence of the people's interests.

Actually, as his critics see it, the special session was about 90 per cent window dressing for Williams' campaign of re-election.

With the session about ready to adjourn, the governor appears to have his issue: Republicans are subservient to "big business."

August Scholle, president of the Michigan CIO Council, criticized the newspapers of Michigan as being "controlled" by big advertisers. The press is in the doghouse, too. And so the stage is being set for a red-hot name-calling campaign.

Until the Republicans agree upon their nominee at the September primary, the Republican replies will be voiced by legislators and by Owen J. Cleary, state central committee chairman.

Since the governor has "mossed" the familiar class lines of "rich vs. poor" in his campaign, the Republicans may be counted on to answer with an "attack on the Truman-Williams welfare state" and the "growing menace of state socialism."

Cleary calls the Williams corporation tax "one of the most flagrant examples of intellectual dishonesty that has yet been presented to the people."

Williams counters: The Democrats have presented "the imposition of new consumer taxes directly on wage-earners, farmers and small businessmen."

When Chairman John H. McCarthy of the Public Service Commission lost his temper and called Schuyler L. Marshall a "liar," he started something which will probably not be to Governor Williams' advantage. Marshall, former newspaper publisher at St. Johns, is the senior member of the commission.

Romaine McCall, editor of the Gratiot County Herald at Ithaca, is among the many Michigan newspapermen who know Marshall well. He is an excerpt from an editorial by McCall.

"Marshall is one of those parties in public office who accepts his job as an obligation and responsibility to the public with very little regard for purely partisan politics. He works at any job he undertakes, trying to get down to basic facts and figures on which to form an opinion."

Grayling High School Obtains Forty Acre School Forest Plot

On May 12th Grayling High School was notified by Mr. Harry Aldrich, Regional Chief of the Conservation Department, that the application for a school forest plot had been approved by the Commission.

The forest embraces forty acres, comprising the NE1/4 of NE1/4 of Section 8, T-26-N, R-3-W. This is an area located east of the Grayling Fish Hatchery on the north side of the Ausable River near the place commonly known as Beaver Island.

A growth of mostly jack pine now covers the area. It has been estimated that approximately 1,500 seedlings can be planted yearly for the next six years on the remaining open ground.

Forestry principles and methods will be studied by students. Cutting and thinning of the trees will be done by the students. It is hoped that some work may be done in the few remaining weeks before the closing of school. The project will be directed by W. E. Kumpula of the school staff.

Following is the letter received by Supt. Frank L. Bond:

Orvis-Ingalls Wedding Held In Flint

Joyce Manola Ingalls exchanged nuptial vows with Bruce E. Orvis in a ceremony performed Saturday by the Rev. William Malowitz at St. Mary's Church in Flint, Michigan.

Parents of the bride are Mr. and Mrs. Andrew Cholo, Grayling, and he is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Mortimer Orvis, Davison Road.

Given in marriage by her brother, Clarence Ingalls, the bride wore a gown of heavy satin with a lace collar. The full skirt was bustled and formed a cathedral train. A seed pearl tiara caught her lace-edged veil and she carried white roses and carnations. LaVonn Hopkins, maid of honor, wore pale blue satin with matching gauntlets, pink roses carrying her bouquet. Robert Burns served as best man, and ushers were Mike Ingalls, nephew of the bride, and Robert Barker.

The reception was held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Ingalls, Flint, Michigan, "out-of-town" guests attending from Lansing, Charlevoix, Newberry, Muskegon and Grayling. Among these were the brides parents. The couple will live at 1633 Davison Road, Flint.

Why a Crusade For Christ

Twelve red-letter days are ahead for Grayling—May the 23rd through June the 4th—during which time a Crusade for Christ will be in action under the sponsorship of the Free Methodist Church. Why? Because we feel that this is one of the most valuable services that we as a church can render for our town.

All of us are interested in improving Grayling. However, no permanent good can be accomplished through political pressure, financial assistance, or social reconstruction alone. Permanent social good comes through spiritual reformation of individuals. With this as a foundation other agencies can build with permanency. What happens to society following a Spiritual Awakening can be clearly seen in the general upheaval for good that followed the Spiritual Awakening led by John Wesley in England. We want to see just such an awakening in our town.

Although the Crusade for Christ is sponsored by the Free Methodist Church, it is not primarily for our church. We would be very much disappointed if this were to be the case. We want to help you of every or no religious background to make a clear-cut decision for Christ during this Crusade.

We solicit the co-operation and prayers of every Christian.

Notice Missouri Lutherans

There will be no church service or Sunday school on May 21 as Rev. Claus will be in attendance at the 50th anniversary of ministry of Rev. Lin at Rogers City.

Vikings Place Third In Loop

Last Saturday, the Grayling track team emerged third from the conference track meet at Charlevoix and brought home three conference champions. They are hard at work this week in preparing for the State Regional Track meet to be held at Cadillac.

Don Millikin took first in the 180 yard low hurdles at the Conference meet and is the record holder in this event as it is the first year for it. He tied for first in the high jump with Victor Papendick and second in the pole vault and ran on the medley relay team that placed second to garner 134 points for the conference meet and one of the outstanding personal performances of the afternoon being shaded only by Charley Fairbanks of Charlevoix, who scored 15 points. John Kasper took the pole vault at 10 feet. Terry Horton was fourth in the high hurdles and Skip Hanson, Duane and Bill Worden ran on the second place medley relay team with Millikin.

Charlevoix won the meet with East Jordan squeezing Grayling out of second place by 3 1/2 points. Harbor Springs was fourth, Pellston fifth, Mancelona sixth and Boyne City seventh. Out of the 13 conference titles, Grayling won three.

Two weeks ago the team went to Cadillac to meet the powerful Class B school in a dual meet and were severely defeated. The Vikings gained but one first place, but the team gained a lot in running on the fine Cadillac track and against outstanding performers.

Last week, the Vikings bounced back when they treated Mancelona almost as badly by dropping them 70 to 35 in a dual meet at the Ironmen's home grounds.

The conference meet followed on Saturday. Coach Bruce Smith said that Grayling would have of a certainty taken second in the loop meet but only 18 boys out of a squad of thirty showed up for the trip. As of this week, the Viking track squad was at 16 the sixteen boys who made the trip. Of this squad, Don Millikin, John Kasper and Victor Papendick have shown much promise and may qualify at regional meet to move on into the State Meet in Lansing on May 27. Several other of the squad members might also break through to qualify.

Later all bands practiced in unison under the direction of Ron Miller, judicator, of Wayne University. In the evening the entire group which involved 216 students played.

The Grayling band received some fine comment and criticism from Mr. Miller.

WARNS OF DUMPING ON STATE LAND

"Considerable trouble has been experienced in people dumping rubbish on State Land in Crawford County," Conservation Officer Clarence Roberts declared today.

He stated that it would not be tolerated and if offenders were caught it would mean a trip to Justice Court on a misdemeanor charge. Throughout the County several dumps have been established for the convenience of the people. If you do not know the whereabouts of a dump in your neighborhood, ask your township supervisor.

"We all know the value of keeping Crawford County clean, and we should well be ashamed of the fact that the woods and waters of the county are littered with junk and rubbish," Officer Roberts said. "The scenic value of the county is destroyed when you drive through the woods and find junk piles all over," he added.

The deer camp registration did wonders towards keeping the woods clean after hunting camps pulled out last fall, but local residents are not aiding when they dump rubbish in unauthorized places or along the highways.

A new dump has been established one-half mile east of Stephens corners on the north side of the river. There is a sign on the blacktop directing towards the location of the new dump. When dumping in the established spots, please place your rubbish in the pits provided and not in the roadway leading into the dumping grounds. Your co-operation is earnestly solicited.

POPPY NEWS

Wear a Poppy, America's silent tribute to her heroes.

May is the month of the poppy. Wearing a poppy is the important thing—not buying a poppy.

Never blooms a flower so red as the one you will wear over your heart Poppy Day, next Saturday, made by veterans and distributed by the American Legion Auxiliary. The brave little memorial poppy is your way of giving the type of thanks there are no words to say. By wearing a poppy you honor the dead and cheer the living heroes of two world wars.

The memorial poppy you'll receive on Saturday was made by a disabled veteran. It's his badge of courage, his symbol of hope. Give generously and gratefully, it means so much to so many.

Buy and proudly wear a poppy Saturday.

Margaret M. Balch,
American Legion Auxiliary,
Publicity Chairman.

Honor Griffith With Banquet

George A. Griffith will be the honored guest at a banquet to be held at the Grayling Masonic Temple on Friday evening, May 26. The affair is a joint meeting of the Grayling Sportsmen's Club, Kiwanis Club and Chamber of Commerce in honoring the only Grayling man to ever serve on the Michigan Conservation Commission.

Griffith was appointed to the Commission on February 9 by Governor G. Mennen Williams and his appointment was later okayed by the Senate of the State of Michigan.

Griffith was appointed to fill a vacancy caused by the death of Andrew B. Champion of Cass City. Champion's death in October, 1949, left vacant a Commission post which expired April 1, 1955.

Griffith's permanent residence is a hunting and fishing lodge on the Ausable River near Grayling.

An enthusiastic outdoor sportsman, Griffith has been a member of the Izaak Walton League since 1924. He is also a member of the Grayling Sportsmen's Club, the Presque Isle County Sportsmen's Club, the Michigan United Conservation Club, Lewiston Sportsmen's League and Paw Paw Conservation Club.

A Shriner, he is also a former member of the Grayling Kiwanis Club.

Griffith has definite ideas on conservation. While his bent is fishing, he feels that hunting and fishing are but a small portion of the benefits offered by Michigan's natural resources.

His interest in soil and forest conservation, and education in conservation, is equal to his desire to see Michigan's bounty in game and fish perpetuated.

For the past 10 years Griffith who is 48 years old, has resided 11 miles east of Grayling on the main stream of the Ausable River, with his wife Helen. He spends probably nine months of the year in the outdoors.

Previous to moving to near Grayling, he maintained a summer cottage near Traverse City.

The joint committee of the three sponsoring organizations announced that Charles E. Moore would serve as toastmaster at the banquet. The meal will be served by the ladies of the Eastern Star and tickets will be priced at $1.50 per plate.

The Valedictorian of the 1950 Graduating Class of Gerrish-Higgins High School has been named as Miss Patricia Malling, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Malling of Higgins Lake, who has maintained practically a straight A average during her 4 years of high school.

She returned to Roscommon for the last three years of high school. She has served on many class committees, played cornet in the senior band during her sophomore year, took the part of Mrs. Gillette in the Junior play, and this year has been a candidate for Sweetheart of a Freshman Sweetheart Dance, and candidate for Mikenauk Queen.

The Senior Class elected Pat as treasurer this year and she is reporter for the Ink Blot. She has been a very valuable member of the Mikenauk staff to which she was appointed secretary.

During this last semester she has spent one period a day helping Mrs. Roulo in the first grade room in carrying out a remedial reading program, which will give her valuable experience for her life work.

Michigan State College has accepted her application for entrance in the field of Home Economics and Nursing, and our best wishes are extended to Pat whom we know will be successful in whatever she undertakes.

Medical Marvel

The May issue of Coronet magazine carries an exceptionally important article called "Meat: A Medical Marvel," written by one of the country's outstanding writers on scientific subjects, J. D. Radcliff. The gist of it is found in his first paragraph: "We don't think of a slab of juicy steak or a chop as medicine. Yet the proteins they contain have as many accomplishments to their credit as any miracle drug."

Back of that lies a dramatic story. The proteins—which are found in a complete state in a limited number of foods, including meat, fish and milk—used to be regarded with considerable suspicion. Meat, for instance, was thought to be particularly dangerous to people with kidney disease, and to presurgical patients. At one time cases of ulcers were treated with a starvation diet. Old people usually avoided the so-called "heavy foods" which are rich in protein content—tea and toast, the theory went, provided most of the nutrient grandmother and grandfather needed.

Recent discoveries, backed by a huge mass of actual practical experience, have almost completely reversed these outmoded theories. To quote Mr. Radcliff again, "Proteins are reducing the hazards of surgery, cutting complications of pregnancy, giving newborn babies a better chance at life. With one disease formerly regarded as being universally fatal—cirrhosis of the liver—proteins are changing the picture from despair to hope. In sum, a dietary revolution is under way. The glamorous vitamins are giving up the spotlight to the even more glamorous proteins."

Moreover, the scientists have found, a high-protein diet has a beneficial effect on mental health and morale as well as physical well-being. So, if you feel like a juicy steak, eat it! It's good for you.

"God gives every bird its food, but he does not throw it into the nest.—J. G. Holland.

Ferris Adds Printing Course

Big Rapids—Ferris Institute today announced it is adding a complete two-year course in practical printing to its Trades and Industry

School. The school will be available to both veterans and non veterans with the full approval and licensed by the Michigan State Board of Control for Vocational Education and with the approval of the Veterans Administration for the training of veterans. Addition of the printing school is made at the request of the Michigan Press Association of which this newspaper and practically all other newspapers in Michigan, is a member.

The course will be started with the opening of the summer college term at Ferris on May 22 and application for admission should be directed to the Registrar at Ferris Institute.

The course was set up through the aid of a special committee from the Press Association, composed of: Meredith Clark, Vicksburg; J. C. Bedient, Albion; and Gene Alleman, secretary-treasurer of the Association, Lansing.

The two-year course will train students in hand composition, platen and cylinder press work, and in linotype operation and maintenance.

A complete printing shop has been installed at Ferris Institute, including linotypes and linotype practice keyboards, job and cylinder presses, type, stereotyping equipment and material, paper cutter and other equipment found in an up-to-date shop. Students will receive instruction under conditions approximating those in actual printing shop operations.

The shop has been installed by Walter Leach, former owner and publisher of the Gas City (Indiana) Journal.

The Michigan Press Association has indicated a demand for trained workmen for the printing industry and last year asked Ferris to add such a course in its Trades and Industry School.

Ferris had the work of planning the course well started and assistants secured for setting it up quite some time before the disastrous fire of February 21, which destroyed the College of Commerce and College of Pharmacy buildings.

Loss of these buildings, the almost unsurmountable task of reorganizing the entire college, crowding classes and offices into nooks and corners and into student housing buildings on the campus, did not halt plans for the printing course. Those who were assisting in arranging the course were instructed to proceed as rapidly as possible and today the new department in Trades and Industry is housed in one of the large barracks buildings on the south side of the stadium.

Instructors have been secured and the entire course will be ready for the first students later on this month.

This will give Ferris, in addition to its degree course in pharmacy and commerce; its pre-professional course, college preparatory, secretarial and special two-year course in commerce; a Trades and Industry school with courses in printing, refrigeration, radio and television, watch and clock, and in architectural and engineering drafting.

Summer school will be divided into two terms, the first six-week term opening May 22 and the second six-week term opening July 3. The summer terms end August 11 and the fall term opens September 4. The Rural Education Workshop opens June 12 and continues through June 30 for school teachers of Michigan.

President Roosevelt's Board said—

President Truman's Board said—

Still the leaders of the Railroad

Firemen's
Union say—

NO! NO! STRIKE!

This ridiculous strike is an affront to every citizen of the nation. It's not for more money.

It's not because of hours. It's only for soft feather-bedding spots for additional unnecessary firemen to go along in diesel locomotives just for the ride. A leading liberal newspaper calls the demands of the union leaders "horse-femurs"!

o The reckless leaders of the firemen's Union want to force down the throats of the railroads and the public a ridiculous "make-work" proposal which has been twice ruled out by Presidential Fact Finding Boards duly appointed under the provisions of the Railway Labor Act.

This demand of union leaders for additional and unnecessary firemen to ride in diesel locomotives was rejected
—after months of hearings—by a Board appointed by President Roosevelt in 1943.

It was again rejected in 1949 by a Board appointed by President Truman.

Recent meetings with the National Mediation Board have brought no change in the attitude of the union dictators.

Union Leaders Defy Intent of Law

The union leaders helped write the Railway Labor Act. Yet in an attempt to jam through this scheme of pure

"feather-bedding" by leading the members of their union out on strike and threatening paralysis to large areas of the nation, they are defying the spirit and intent of the very law which they helped to create.

This strike is not for higher wages.
It is a strike to force the railroads to employ many more thousands of firemen who are not needed! It would be indefensible waste. The railroads have refused to place this additional and unnecessary burden on the public.

But more important than any other consideration, is the action of these few irresponsible union leaders in seeking to force a plunging strike upon the

This strike is one of the silliest strikes in history!

What are these reckless union leaders trying to do? They seek to cause thousands of their members to strike, and throw hundreds of thousands of other employees on and off the railroads out of employment, with loss of pay to them and their families, plus a severe blow to industry and the citizens of the nation.

What's the strike all about? If the union has its way—what happens? The present members of the union won't get one cent more pay. They will merely have been assessed for a costly and indefensible drive in an attempt to provide more dues-paying members for the union by creating "feather-bedding" jobs for additional and unnecessary firemen.
This is certainly one of the silliest strikes in history!

nation for their own selfish purposes.
There is no other possible answer to such a demand but "No!"

The railroads in making such a reply believe they have the whole-hearted support of the people in whose interest they are willing to fight this out, despite the loss and inconvenience that all will suffer.

It is time to put an end to such un-
American demands.

We are publishing this and other advertisements to talk to you at first hand about matters which are important to everybody.

SHORT STORY
A Misunderstanding

By Richard Hill Willardson

I'LL NEVER FORGET the spectacle of Joe Abbott and Count Obeld fighting. Thinking of it, I am more apt to shudder than smile. Though it certainly had amusing aspects.

3-Minute Fiction

You see, Joe is an American. And he wasn't used to the way they did things in Luandia.

Anyway, when Joe and I stopped off at Cabindas on our world-cruise, we were much pleased with the place.

That night we had dinner at the Plaza and it was there that we first saw Kandace. She was sitting alone in a booth, and when she caught Joe staring at her boldly, she nodded and smiled at him.

Instinctively I knew, when I saw the tall dark man come through the door, that Joe was in for trouble. And I was right. The tall dark man strode toward the booth and there was something about him that caused my blood to creep. I stood up, but was by no means quick enough. The stranger had grasped Joe by the coat front, jerked him to his feet and slapped his face.

Joe was hauling back for a hay-maker when my arms closed about him.

After a while a messenger came in and handed me a note. I read it and looked sourly at Joe. "Now you've done it. That was Count Obeld and that was his girl you insulted."

"Insulted?" said Joe. "And he wants to fight a duel with you. He realizes our boat sails first thing in the morning, so in order to accommodate us he'll await our pleasure at dawn. He will do you the honor of permitting you to choose your own weapons."

Joe shook his head and tried to grasp it. "That punk—the dope who smacked my jaw—wants to fight a duel? You mean like they do in Sabatin's books?" "And I can choose my own weapons," Joe went on. He stood up. "Come on."

I followed him, not quite daring to use force in stopping him again, yet ready for any emergency. We went back to the Plaza. The count and his girl were, of course, gone. Joe made inquiries, wrote down an address and beckoned me to follow. A taxi deposited us before a pretentious looking house of white adobe. A servant admitted us and presently Count Obeld appeared.

"You're giving me the honor of choosing my own weapons," said Joe. "I'll take these," and he knotted

Grimacing, Joe stepped in and delivered a quick one-two on the nobleman's chin.

He stepped in and held them under the count's nose.

"Those!" said the amazed count.

"Yeah," said Joe, "and on your honor as a gentleman you can't refuse. Also, why wait till dawn?"

WHAT followed was pitiful. We trooped into the back yard. Joe and the count took off their coats and squared off. Grinning, Joe stepped in and delivered a quick one-two on the nobleman's chin. Blood appeared on his mouth. He swung wildly. Joe set him back on his heels. The count came in again and Joe knocked him down. He got up and came back for more. "Listen, old horse," he said, "you're as dumb about the customs back in America as I am about them over here. Only I didn't have the guts to fight you your own way—and you, well, by gosh, there are damned few Americans can take it the way you have. And right here and now I rise to remark you have my apology, and I'll tell that damn so, too, if you'll tell me where she lives."

Well, the count only caught on to about one-third of what Joe meant and grinned and offered his hand.

Ten minutes later the three of us were sitting around a fire in Kandace's living room, laughing and talking and drinking punch and telling each other that it was too bad there wasn't a perfect understanding about customs of different countries, and agreed that if such were the case every one would be happier.

TALL TIMBER TALES

By PETE

(Around the campfire in Big Bear Swamp.)

"All my life," the timberlooker said, "I'd been trained to look at things as they are, not as they ought to be but ain't. Never done any good to look at a tree with a rotten heart or hollow butt an' cuss it because it wasn't sound like other trees. You just had to set it down fer what it was, an' let it bring down the average in spite of the good report you was tryin' to make o-the whole track.

Johnny an' me we set down an' took the food the squaw brought us. When the sun was down, wolves begun to howl out in Big Bear Swamp an' somebody built a fire an' we set round that. There was the two men from the settlement actin' like they didn't know what to do, an' the old trapper with his long white hair an' whiskers, an' his stump of a leg an' the maple crutch he used for a crutch, an' the legend was that he'd been a doctor or lawyer sometime, but had pulled to the woods for reasons best known to himself. An' there was Willie Jenks, who had one swelled shut from his fist fight with Bonnie Parker on the wagon, an' other bruises on his smooth more or less handsome face. Then there was the boy. He acted like a strange little pup, tryin' to make friends but wonderin' if he's gonna get a pat on the head or a can tied to his tail. Then there was the squaw Nika, paddin' about cleanin' things up, puttin' things away. She looked young, an' intelligent, an' her movements was smooth an' quick, but her face was a mask. Then there was my friend Johnny who was more Injun than white, on account of he was raised by an Injun mother, but the only one in the bunch I knew was solid gold. I set there an' learned things that night that just about curled my whiskers. I learned about some other things that had been only legends before, but they come to life as the squaw Nika talked in her broken English an' Indian words. She set a little apart from the rest of us, the firelight playin' on her dusky face an' givin' us a flash now an' then from her great dark eyes.

"I was married to Joe Mukk," she said, "he was one of the old Tillie's whelps." His father was John Mukk who was Tillie's son. Mollie was her daughter. And she was wife to George Jenks, and mother to Willie and Charlie. Charlie, he was very bad, but Willie he would be good if he could. We were all young then.

"At first I am very proud being married to white man but I get sick of rob and steal all the time, and tell him so. I am run away an go to my grandfather in Big Bear Swamp where we always live. My husband he try to kill me an' my baby. I get away and run all night. In morning I think to drown myself.

I am very scare. White man pull me out and take me and my baby to his house. He have very nice wife and white papoose. I go upriver with them, and because of me they are kill. I am very bad, very evil. I bring bad luck. My husband he steal my own little one and I-keep-white-papoose. I am still very bad. I would still keep white papoose if I could." (Note: The partial repetition of last fall's story of Nika and the White papoose is only for the purpose of present clarity.)
